

Twenty-Seventh Annual Feast of Tabernacles – 6010/2007

THE SEVEN LAST PLAGUES

PART 13

Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה! Give thanks unto the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, call upon His name, make known His deeds among the people. Sing unto Him, sing psalms unto Him, talk ye of all His wondrous works. Glory ye in His holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה. Seek the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, and His strength, seek His face continually. Remember His marvelous works that He hath done, His wonders, and the judgments of His mouth; O ye seed of Israel His servant, ye children of Jacob, His chosen ones. He is the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, our God; His judgments are in all the earth.

Be ye mindful always of His covenant; the word which He commanded to a thousand generations; even of the covenant which He made with Abraham, and of His oath unto Isaac. And hath confirmed the same to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant, Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance; when ye were but few, even a few, and strangers in it. And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people; He suffered no man to do them wrong: yea, He reproveth kings for their sakes, Saying, Touch not Mine anointed, and do My prophets no harm.

Sing unto the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, all the earth; shew forth from day to day His salvation. Declare His glory among the heathen; His marvelous works among all nations. For great is the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, and greatly to be praised: He also is to be feared above all gods. For all the gods of the people are idols: but the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, made the heavens. And say ye, Save us, O God, יהוה בן יהוה, of our salvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to Thy holy name, and glory in Thy praise. Blessed be the Lord, יהוה בן יהוה, God of Israel for ever and ever. Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה!

Shalom Aleichem, and welcome to the seminar this morning entitled, “The Seven Last Plagues,” Part 13. We have assembled here in this place—the Marriott Chateau Champlain, in Montreal, Quebec, Canada—to celebrate our Twenty-Seventh Annual Feast of Tabernacles 6010. During our remembrance and celebration of this feast, we must take the time to reflect and ponder the condition in which our Hebrew Israelite forefathers dwelled in temporary shelters called “booths” when our great God, יהוה, brought them out of the Land of Egypt with a mighty hand (Leviticus 23:42, 43). Furthermore, the Feast of Tabernacles is the one feast ordained by our God, יהוה, in which all nations of the Earth are required to come up and worship before Him or suffer the punishments and plagues of Egypt (Zechariah 14:16-19). Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה!

Before we embark on our quest to unlock the truth concealed in our foundation Scripture for our seminar today, let us recapitulate the key facts that we brought to light in our previous discussion. This will allow us to easily understand the following events that are destined to take place in the sequence of the pouring out of the seventh and last plague of the wrath of יהוה.

In part 12 of this seminar series, we made use of trusted scholarly sources (dictionaries and reference tools) to disclose a significant announcement and make a grave report concerning the dragon, the beast, and the false prophet utilizing the mass media, to issue forth global broadcasts of violent statements against the righteous followers of יהוה בן יהוה. As a consequence for their actions, our God, יהוה, shall in turn cause all of the mass media outlets—such as all television companies, radio stations, magazines and periodicals, newspapers, and Internet Service Providers and companies, along with the television/radio producers, writers, editors, and directors; and newspaper/magazine publishers—to be severely penalized by the severe seventh last plague of יהוה.

But, nevertheless, and most importantly, it is the will of our God, יהוה, that these blatant facts be published for all of the Earth to know beforehand. This proves the immense graciousness of our eleemosynary Father, יהוה, since He is allowing all who wish to be saved out of His fierce indignation to change their wicked ways and plans of action. Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה!

Our study today shall be dictated from the Scripture, Revelation, Chapter 16, verse 18, as we shall strive to disclose and make plain for all to see the inescapable conditions predestined to happen as a consequence of our God, יהוה, pouring out some of His seventh and last plague upon the Earth with all His ferocious and flaming wrath. Therefore, let us all open our Bibles and turn to the Book of Revelation, Chapter 16, verses 17 through 21. These verses lay the establishment for our intense inquiry and exploration of all the circumstances that shall constitute the seventh last plague of יהוה. Let us read:

[17] “And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done.

[18] And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.

[19] And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, יהוה, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of His wrath.

[20] And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

Here, we must emphasize, as we did in our last seminar, that these five verses constitute the seventh and last plague of הַחֵמָה as a whole. Each of these verses explains an occurrence that shall come about in the timetable of events comprising the full and complete pouring out of this devastating seventh last plague. We shall now begin our journey of enlightenment to find out the subsequent message in Revelation 16:18, beginning with the phrase that reads, “And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .”

On the trusted authority of the Microsoft Encarta Dictionary, copyright 1993-2004, Computer Edition, the word and is “used to introduce an event that is a consequence of something just mentioned.” Secondly, also from the same source, there is defined as “at that point. [It is] used to refer to a point reached in a process.” Depending on the authenticity of the e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, the Greek Dictionary number 1096, explains ghin’-om-ahēe as the translation for the word were. This word, ginomai, is a prolonged and middle form of a primary verb meaning, “to cause to be, to follow, and [as] soon as it was.”

With all of these explanations, we can determine that because the phrase “and there were” is the introductory statement of our foundation Scripture, it serves to depict the following consequences resulting from the seventh last plague being poured out upon the mass communications system of the Earth—the event just previously mentioned in Verse 17. Immediately following, as soon as, and at that point reached in the process of the seventh plague being executed upon the mass communications system, the seventh angel of יהוה shall cause “voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .” to occur.

In order to achieve a true understanding and comprehension of what actually constitutes what our foundation Scripture describes as voices, thunders, and lightnings, as they relate to the information previously discussed in part 12, we must make diligent use of globally trusted and reliable sources. Therefore, let us first set our magnifying glass upon the word voices for a clear interpretation of our foundation Scripture.

According to the Greek Dictionary of e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, under the reference number 5456, pronounced fo-nay, voice means “sound and noise.” We shall define the word sound and then voice to establish our research. Sound, as based on the validity of the Microsoft Encarta Dictionary, copyright 1993-2004, Computer Edition, as electronic engineering, is “the music, speech, or other sounds heard through an electronic device such as a television, radio, or loudspeaker, especially with regard to volume or quality.” From the same aforementioned source, in broadcasting, sound is “the recording, editing, and replaying of music, speech, or sound effects in the broadcast or entertainment industry.”

We found out earlier that הה"ה shall cause the seventh and last plague to come against all of the mass communications outlets. Henceforth, we can conclude from these definitions that the seventh plague shall bring a change precisely upon all electronic engineering devices of the Earth. To put it plainly, it, the seventh plague, shall particularly affect the volume and quality of all the music, speech, and other sounds heard through electronic devices, such as a televisions, radios, or loudspeakers. In other words, the seventh last plague shall affect everything, that is electronically engineered, including the recording, editing, and replaying of music, speech, and sound effects in both the broadcast and entertainment industries.

Now, how can electronic devices such as televisions, radios, and loudspeakers be rendered deficient and inadequate due to the lack of qualitative volume and sound? And, secondly, how do recording and editing machines that replay music, speech, and sound effects become affected in a way that they are no longer useable because of bad volume and depleted sound quality? Well, an answer can be established through our elucidating on the word noise, which was defined from the Greek word for voices, pronounced ghinomahee.

Based on the renown reputation of the Merriam-Webster's 11th Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 2003, Computer Software, noise (from our definition of voice) is “an unwanted signal or a disturbance (as static or a variation of voltage) in an electronic device or instrument (as radio or television).” Noise is further described in Random House Webster’s College Dictionary – Word Genius, copyright 2004, Computer Edition, as “an electric disturbance in a communications system that interferes with reception of a signal.”

So, from these explanations, we can deduce that the televisions, radios, loudspeakers, recording and editing machines used in the daily broadcasts of news and entertainment, through mass communication devices, on the Earth shall produce unwanted signals and disturbances (such as static and voltage variations). Thusly, these electric disturbances shall interfere with the reception of clear signals in the global communications system.

What is the significance of these signals that are clearly necessary for the proper reception and broadcasts of television and radio programming? In corroboration with the New Oxford American Dictionary & Thesaurus, copyright 2000, Computer Software, a signal is classified as “an electrical impulse or radio wave transmitted or received.” In electronics, an impulse is “a surge of electrical power in one direction.” And a radio wave is “an electromagnetic wave within the range of radio frequencies.” While electromagnetic simply means “created by or relating to electromagnetism”; electromagnetism is “magnetism produced by an electric current.” These definitions are substantiated in the American Heritage

Talking Dictionary and Thesaurus, copyright 1997, and the Microsoft Encarta Dictionary, copyright 1993-2004, Computer Software.

Therefore, these combined meanings allow us to firmly conclude that these signals are extremely significant because they are responsible for transmitting all surges of electrical power in “one” direction along with magnetic frequencies and radio waves throughout all electronic mass communication devices.

Presently, continuing our examination of what television and radio signals are, now leads us to determine what exact instruments are used to transmit these surges of electrical power and radio waves. Wherefore, we will refer to the Microsoft Encarta Reference Library 2004, copyright 1993-2003, Computer Edition, which plainly describes a communications satellite as “any earth-orbiting spacecraft that provides communication over long distances by reflecting or relaying radio-frequency signals [which are] reflected in all directions, so they can be picked up by receiving stations around the world.”

Now, we can announce assuredly that televisions, radios, loudspeakers, recording and editing machines used in the daily broadcasts of mass communications on the Earth shall produce unwanted disturbances such as static and voltage variations. These electric disturbances shall interfere with the reception of clear signals, which normally transmit impulses and radio waves to all electronic communication devices through surges of electrical power that travel in one direction along with the magnetic frequencies produced by these electric currents. Secondly, the earth-orbiting spacecraft and satellites provide communication over long distances by reflecting and relaying these radio-frequency signals, as they reflect in all directions, so they can be picked up by receiving stations around the world.

The Microsoft Encarta Reference Library 2004, Computer Edition, further verifies that, “hundreds of active communications satellites are now in orbit. They receive signals from one ground station, amplify them, and then retransmit them at a different frequency to another station. Commercial satellites provide a wide range of communications services. Television programs are relayed internationally, giving rise to the phenomenon known as the ‘global village.’ Satellites also relay programs to cable television systems as well as to homes equipped with dish antennas. In addition, very small aperture terminals (VSATs) relay digital data for a multitude of business services.”

Hence, from breaking down the word voices, it is easy to recognize that the seventh last plague of הה"ה shall be the electric disturbances interfering with the reception of clear signals from the hundreds of earth-orbiting spacecraft or active communications satellites that are now in orbit. These satellites normally provide communication by receiving signals from ground stations, amplifying them, then retransmitting them at different frequencies to other stations over long distances.

These signals—which are reflected and relayed in all directions to be picked up by receiving stations around the world, known as the ‘global village’—shall eventually become full of electric static destroying the reception of clear volume, sounds, and pictures. Therefore, as these satellites attempt to relay programs to cable television systems and to homes equipped with dish antennas, the customers trying to watch will not be able to receive any qualitative programming. Even more so, because these satellites are used to relay digital data for a multitudinous or large number of business services, then many companies will lose money because all of their data will be permanently ruined. Praise יהוה! Praise בן יהוה!

Currently, we are elucidating on the word noise, which was defined from the Greek word for voices, pronounced ghinomahee, as we break down the phrase, “voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .” Though we have just gathered a wealth of information on the word noise in regard to television and radio satellites, it is also used to describe something else.

With that being true, let us refer to the Microsoft Encarta Dictionary, copyright 1993-2004, Computer Edition, which openly affirms that noise is also a term in computing. In this category, it is the “unwanted or meaningless data intermixed with the relevant information in the output from a computer.” Additionally, this same reference tool defines data as “information, for example, numbers, text, images, and sounds, in a form that is suitable for storage in or processing by a computer.” And information is “computer data that has been organized and presented in a systematic fashion to clarify the underlying meaning.”

Therefore, not only will the seventh last plague of יהוה cause overwhelming and irreversible problems in the television and radio satellite systems, but it shall also bring undesired complications and inconveniences in the computing aspect of the mass communications systems throughout the whole Earth.

The trouble soon to be experienced will come from unwanted and meaningless numbers, text, images, and sounds being in a form that is not suitable for storage or processing by normal computer systems. This incomprehensible gibberish and mumbo-jumbo shall be intermixed with the relevant numbers, text, images, and sounds that are organized and presented in a systematic fashion to simplify the original information that is usually output from computers. Praise יהוה! Praise בן יהוה!

We are still on the course of making plain the phrase, “voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .” Now that we have a definite perception of what noise, stemming from voices actually is, in regard to our foundation Scripture, the next word to decode is thunder. Remember, immediately following, and as soon as the seventh plague is poured out upon the mass communications system of the Earth there shall be “voices, and thunders, and lightnings.”

According to e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, thunder is located under the Greek Dictionary number 1027, pronounced bron-tay, means, “to roar.” The Merriam-Webster’s 11th Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 2003, Computer Software, defines roar as “to make or emit a loud confused sound (as background reverberation or rumbling).” While page 1034 of The Synonym Finder, by J. I. Rodale, copyright 1978, categorizes reverberation as “echoing, resounding, and bounce-back”; on the other hand, page 1058 labels rumble as “boom, drumming, and barrage.”

We already learned that the televisions, radios, loudspeakers, recording and editing machines used in the daily broadcasts of mass communications on the Earth shall generate unwanted disturbances through static and voltage variations. Here, we can confirm that these same aforementioned electronic devices and machines shall, simply, make and emit loud confused sounds as background echoing, resoundings, and bounce-backs in a barrage of booms and steady drumming.

At this point, we have discovered what voices and thunders really are. Thus, it is time to educate ourselves on what lightnings are, as they relate to the seventh last plague of יִהְיֶה. Founded on the correctness of e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, lightning is established from the Greek Dictionary number 796, pronounced as-trap-ay, and it means “glare.”

A glare is validated in the New Oxford American Dictionary & Thesaurus, copyright 2000, Computer Software, as “(of an electric light) [to] shine with a strong light.” In addition, the Merriam-Webster’s 11th Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 2003, Computer Software, a glare is “a harsh uncomfortably bright light.” Also, number 797 of this same Greek Dictionary, pronounced as-trap’-to, means “to flash as lightning.”

The New Oxford American Dictionary & Thesaurus, copyright 2000, Computer Software, certifies that to flash is to “display (an image, words, or information) suddenly on a television or computer screen typically repeatedly.” In accordance with a definition from Webster’s New World Dictionary & Thesaurus, copyright 1998, Computer Software, lightning is “a discharge of electricity.” Finally, in the American Heritage Talking Dictionary and Thesaurus, copyright 1997, Computer Software, lightning is dictated as “moving or occurring with remarkable speed or suddenness.”

Henceforth, on top of what we have revealed shall happen to the televisions, radios, loudspeakers, recording/editing machines used in the daily news and entertainment broadcasts through the mass communications system on the Earth, we have more to add. First, these devices shall generate unwanted disturbances through static and voltage variations. Secondly, they shall make and emit loud confused sounds as background echoing, resoundings, and bounce-backs in a barrage of booms and steady drumming.

Now, we see that these devices and machines—specifically televisions and computer screens—shall also display unnecessary images, words, and information suddenly and repeatedly. Moreover, the screens shall continuously shine strong, harsh, and uncomfortably bright electric lights resulting from discharges of electricity that shall move and occur with remarkable speed within these machines. Let us read the Scripture, Job, Chapter 37, verses 2 and 3 for proof of who is without question behind these happenings:

[2] “Hear attentively the noise of His voice, and the sound that goeth out of His mouth.

[3] He directeth it under the whole heaven, and His lightning unto the ends of the earth.”

These Scriptures serve to reiterate that it is indeed our mighty God, יהוה, whose voice shall be heard and whose lightning shall flash as He disrupts the televisions and computer screens used for viewing on the entire Earth. Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה!

As we proceed along with our study of Revelation, Chapter 16, verse 18, it is now crucial for us to find out precisely what shall happen after all of the previously mentioned dilemmas come to pass against the mass communications system on this planet. In order to do this, we must translate the next part of our foundation Scripture. However, before we move on to decipher the successive phrases, I must bring to the forefront the fact that the Scriptural phrase, “And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .” ends with a semicolon. It is vital that we realize why this is the case if we are to clearly understand this entire Scripture.

On that basis, we shall refer to the repeatedly trusted source Punctuation: Plain and Simple, copyright 1997, which on page 73, explains that “a semicolon is used to join two main ideas when the second main idea functions to explain the first.” Therefore, we can determine that after we make sense of the upcoming phrases, they shall serve to explain the first statement made in our foundation Scripture.

We have proven what voices, thunders, and lightnings truthfully are. Therefore, let us now find out how what they were really uncovered to be corresponds to the next phrase in Revelation, Chapter 16, verse 18, which states in part, “and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.”

Once again, relying on e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, the word and, as used at this point in the Scripture, is located under the reference number 2532 of the Greek Dictionary, pronounced kahee. Kai means

“so” and “then.” It is also “often used in connection with other particles or small words [such as] likewise.”

Thusly, because Revelation 16:18 begins by stating, “And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; . . .” the word and continues the following statement to express that likewise, “there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.”

Let us now decode what the great earthquake in this Scripture signifies since it shall take place along with the voices, thunders, and lightnings in the mass communications system of the Earth. Great is authenticated from e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, copyright 2000-2004, Greek Dictionary number 3173, pronounced meg'-as. Megas is maintained as “big (literally or figuratively) exceedingly, large, and strong.”

As avouched in the Noah Webster's 1828 Dictionary, copyright 1828, Adobe Computer Software Edition, exceedingly is verified as “in a degree beyond what is usual.” This same dictionary illustrates large as being “a large extent of territory. Extensive or populous; containing many inhabitants; as a large city or town.” In the American Heritage Talking Dictionary and Thesaurus, copyright 1997, Computer Software, territory is “a particular area of activity, [the] world.” Noah Webster's 1828 Dictionary, copyright 1828, Adobe Computer Software Edition, also states that something large is “without restraint or confinement.”

Lastly, strong means “unusually severe of its kind” (according to the Microsoft Encarta Dictionary, copyright 1993-2004, Computer Edition).

These explanations allow us to assert soundly that the great earthquake that shall follow the voices, thunders, and lightnings in the mass communications system shall be to a degree that is beyond usual because it shall affect a large extent of territory without restraint or confinement. More precisely, this earthquake shall affect the ‘area’ of its activity, which is, to put it bluntly, the entire world. Furthermore, this earthquake shall have an unusually severe influence on many large cities with extensive populations and towns containing many inhabitants. Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה!

Now, what exactly constitutes this overpowering earthquake? Well, the Greek Dictionary of e-Sword, gives the reference number for earthquake as 4578, pronounced sice-mos, which is “a commotion and tempest.” Merriam-Webster’s 11th Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 2003, Computer Software, describes commotion as “a condition of civil unrest or insurrection.” This same source substantiates insurrection as “an act or instance of revolting against civil authority or an established government.” Commotion is a “political or social disturbance or upheaval” (in accordance with the Random House Webster’s College Dictionary – Word Genius, copyright 2004, Computer Edition). Documented in the American

Wherefore, we can assert from these facts that because of the state of affairs arising as a result of the extreme problems with the mass communications system, a condition of civil unrest and revolt against the ruling civil authorities and the established governments shall ensue. This unprecedented political and social disturbance and upheaval shall be nothing less than a worldwide tempest of furious agitation and tumult “. . . such as was not since men were upon the earth,” from the acute lack of qualitative television, radio, and computer output, whether domestic (in the home) or industrial (for business purposes).

Now, in the Random House Webster’s College Dictionary – Word Genius, copyright 2004, Computer Edition, while the word such is defined as “of the kind or degree”; since means “from then till now (often preceded by ever).” Hence, the phrase, such as was not since men were upon the earth, simply expresses that the earthquake in Revelation 16:18 shall be of a certain kind and to a degree as was not from ever men were upon the Earth.

So, who are the persons classified as men in our foundation Scripture? We know that the word men is the plural from of man. Therefore, we will define the word man to identify who the Scripture is referring to. On the trusted authority of the American Heritage Talking Dictionary, copyright 1997, man is “a human being regardless of sex or age.” As recorded in e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, in the Greek Dictionary, located under reference number 1093, pronounced ghay, the earth is “soil; by extension a region, or the solid part or the whole of the terrene globe (including the occupants): - country, land, world.”

These explanations confirm that the condition of worldwide civil unrest and revolt against the ruling civil authorities and established governments that shall come about due to the destruction of the mass communications system shall be of a particular kind that its degree has not ever been. Yes, this disturbing political and social upheaval shall be so furiously tumultuous that nothing has ever resembled it from the time human beings—regardless of being male or female or age—possessed and occupied regions, lands, and countries over the entire globe. Thus, this subsequent occurrence shall be “so mighty an earthquake, and so great.” Let us turn and read Isaiah, Chapter 29, verse 6:

“Thou shalt be visited of the Lord, יהוה, of hosts with thunder, and with earthquake, and great noise, with storm and tempest, and the flame of devouring fire.”

Presently, we have arrived at the point in which we make plain the final statement of Revelation, Chapter 16, verse 18, starting with the word mighty, then the word great. In one of the most relied up sources, e-Sword, Bible Computer Software, under the Greek Dictionary number 5082, mighty, pronounced tay-lik-oo'-tos or tay-lik-ow'-tay, is interpreted as “([figuratively] in magnitude) so vast.”

In Merriam-Webster’s 11th Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 2003, Computer Software, vast means “very great in intensity, or especially in extent or range.”

Subsequently, predicated on the accuracy of The New Strong’s Expanded Exhaustive Concordance of the Bible, Red Letter Edition, copyright 2001, on page 52 of the Hebrew Dictionary, under the references 1419 and 1431, great is spelled from right to left גָּדוֹל or גִּדְּלָ (Gimmel, Dalet, Wav, Lamed or Gimmel, Dalet, Lamed), pronounced gahdol or gahdahl. Gahdol and gahdahl, mean “loud and mighty.”

To be loud is to be “clamorous; emphatic and insistent” (as founded in Webster’s New World Dictionary & Thesaurus, copyright 1998, Computer Software). Moreover, mighty is gleaned from Noah Webster’s 1828 Dictionary, copyright 1828, Adobe Computer Software Edition, as “vehement and rushing with violence.”

From these meanings, we can affirm further that the worldwide civil unrest resulting from the complete devastation of the mass communications system shall be extremely tumultuous. It is safe to say that people over the entire globe, regardless of gender or age, shall be clamorous and emphatic in insisting on their political governments to solve the enormous problem. However, when this does not occur, the end result shall be vehement and rushing (swift and urgent) violence from the global population. Praise יהוה! Praise בן יהוה! Let us read Isaiah, Chapter 13, verses 4 through 6:

[4] “The noise of a multitude in the mountains, like as of a great people; a tumultuous noise of the kingdoms of nations gathered together: the Lord, יהוה, of hosts mustereth the host of the battle.

[5] They come from a far country, from the end of heaven, even the Lord, יהוה, and the weapons of His indignation, to destroy the whole land.

[6] Howl ye; for the day of the Lord, יהוה, is at hand; it shall come as a destruction from the Almighty.”

Praise יהוה! Praise בן יהוה! In our study today, we have learned that the televisions, radios, loudspeakers, recording and editing machines used in the daily broadcasts of mass communication on the Earth shall produce unwanted disturbances through static and voltage variations. These electric disturbances shall interfere with the reception of clear signals that transmit surges of electrical power and radio waves to all electronic communication systems. Earth-orbiting spacecraft, called satellites, are the instruments that provide communication over long distances by reflecting and relaying these radio-frequency signals in all directions so that they can be picked up by receiving stations around the world.

We confirmed that these electronic devices and machines will also make and emit loud confused sounds as background echoing, resoundings, and bounce-backs in a barrage of booms and steady drumming. And, we validated that, specifically, televisions and computer screens shall display unnecessary images, words, and information suddenly and repeatedly. Plus, their screens shall continuously shine strong, harsh, and uncomfortably bright electric lights resulting from discharges of electricity that shall move and occur with remarkable speed within these machines.

Lastly, we proved that worldwide civil unrests shall result from the complete devastation of the global mass communications system. All people who utilize any means of mass communication—whether electronic or printed (including, but not limited to, televisions, radios, computers/internet, i-pods, cell phones, digital cameras and camcorders, newspapers, magazines, and periodicals), regardless of gender or age—shall be clamorous and emphatic in insisting that the global political governments solve this overwhelming problem. If a solution cannot be determined—and we know it will not—then the end result shall be vehemently swift and urgent violence by all of the occupants and inhabitants of the Earth, especially those from largely populated cities and towns.

All of this shall be the consequence that the people of the Earth shall suffer as the divine retribution of our God, יהוה, because of the malicious and false statements of the dragon, the beast, and the false prophet that shall be made public for the world to witness, by means of the mass communications system.

Let us read Revelation, Chapter 16, verses 19 through 21, to find out what events we shall seek to shine a bright light on in our next seminar as we continue to reveal what comprises the full pouring out of the seventh and last plague of יהוה and who it shall purposely affect:

[19] “And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, יהוה, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of His wrath.

[20] And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

As always, I thank and offer my sincere gratitude to my Heavenly Father, יהוה, especially because He sent His only begotten Son, our Messiah, בן יהוה, to teach and indoctrinate me with His divine Word and holy law. I bless Him eternally and pray that He continues to keep me in His precious bosom of wisdom, knowledge, understanding, and safety. Praise יהוה! Praise יהוה בן יהוה! Shalom Aleichem, and enjoy the remainder of this truly grand Feast of Tabernacles/Holy Convocation!
